Summary

My name is Yevgeny and I am an ambitious frontend developer ready to expand my skills and learn new things in the exciting world of web development. I have a passion for creating user interfaces and believe in the power of technology to improve the web space. What I offer: Willing to invest time and effort in learning and development. As a beginner, I consider it important to gain experience working in a team where I can learn more from experienced professionals and contribute to projects. I would appreciate the opportunity to join your team and grow with you!
